Fun run in the park raises hundreds for charity cause

A DAY of activities in aid of Sport Relief has raised more than £1,400 for the charity, with more contributions to come.

Mayor of Haringey Gina Adamou welcomed 150 runners and hundreds of residents to an event at Albert Road Recreation Ground in Wood Green.

Bollywood dancing, music, jumble stalls, face painting, jewellery stands, tennis competitions and wonderful weather all came together to make the day a great success.

It was organised jointly by the Friends of Albert Road Recreation Ground, Pavilion Sports and Cafe, England Athletics and Haringey Council.

Peter Droussiatis, chairman of FARRG, said: "Our Sport Relief event in Haringey exemplified all that is good about our community and the Friends of Albert Road Recreation Ground.

"Thanks to our volunteers and the excellent partnership with Robby's Pavilion, Sport England, Haringey Council, local schools and a diverse range of local musicians, the park became a hub of activity for most of the day with a variety of stalls, a silent auction, dancing, music and singing, all of which added to the one, three and six-mile runs which were completed by families as well as more serious runners."

£900K FOR FAMILY SUPPORT SCHEME

A PROJECT to help young children growing up in very difficult family circumstances has been awarded £900,000 from the Big Lottery Fund.

The Haringey 'Building Bridges' project will be led by Family Action, working with Haringey

Council, Markfield and a range of groups including Tottenham Hotspur Foundation, Epic Housing, Haringey CAB, Haringey Women's Forum, Haringey Advisory Group on Alcohol and Haringey Play Association Somerfield.

The backing will see around 240 families in Haringey benefit from tailored, holistic support from voluntary sector organisations working in partnership with public services.

It will support families who need help with issues such as housing, health, learning difficulties, disability, family breakdown and school exclusion as well as drug/alcohol abuse, domestic abuse, poverty or social isolation.

A dedicated key worker will provide long-term support to families which are below the threshold for statutory intervention to prevent problems escalating.

Working in the families' own homes, they will build trust, develop relationships and support them to engage with other services. An action plan will be developed to access support in a targeted way, with clear goals and regular reviews, helping to establish routines to help parents regain control.

Helen Dent, chief executive of Family Action, said: "Our new Building Bridges services in Haringey is great news for children and families in the borough and builds on our work with families locally over many years. This new service will work with a range of organisations to improve outcomes for children and parents.

"We're grateful the Big Lottery Fund has given us this opportunity to make a real difference for the local community, improving children's futures and strengthening families."

Theft witness CCTV images are released

CCTV images of two witnesses to a theft at a jeweller's shop during last summer's riots have been released in a bid for more information.

Paradise Gems, in Tottenham High Road, was burgled and set on fire at around 11.40pm on August 6 last year.

Despite attempts by firefighters to put the blaze out, the building burnt to the ground.

However, some of the safes containing customers' jewellery and jewellery belonging to the owner remained intact

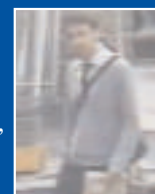

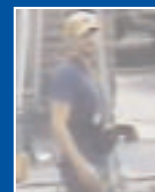

As the rubble from the site was being cleared away, it is believed someone or possibly a group of people forced the safes open and stole the contents.

Witness one is wearing a yellow baseball cap, navy T-shirt, three-quarter-length shorts and trainers. He had a black suitcase and camera with him. In the CCTV he appears to be taking photographs.

Witness two is wearing dark trousers and a white shirt under a grey jumper with a black tie. He also appears to have a black record-style bag.

Both witnesses are being asked to contact Detective Sergeant Christine Harris on 020 8345 0872. Those with information who wish to remain anonymous can call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

People who believe their property may have been stolen from Paradise Gems are being asked to contact the owner, Stephen Moore, on 07804 047808 or 07758 267424. It is important that they have documentation about their property to hand.

Home Office website halted by anti-extradition hackers

A NOTORIOUS group of hackers brought down part of the Home Office's website on Saturday night, in protest at the government's treatment of Gary McKinnon.

Some of the website's pages were disrupted by Anonymous, a group opposed to any attempts to restrict access to material on the internet, and visitors trying to get access to the site were told it was unavailable temporarily.

Mr McKinnon, 46, from Palmers Green, is facing extradition to the United States after he hacked into 97 American military computers in 2001 and 2002.

He and his family have been campaigning for a decade for the British government to block Mr McKinnon's extradition, saying it would breach his human rights as he suffers from Asperger syndrome.

Anonymous tweeted about its intentions to bring down the Home Office website last week, saying that their actions were in support of Mr McKinnon and Richard O'Dwyer, who is also facing extradition to America, and Christopher Tappin, who was extradited earlier this year.

A Home Office spokeswoman said the website was now running as normal.

Former finance chief admits swindling council of £500,000

By Mary McConnell

A FORMER finance director at Enfield Council has admitted scamming almost £500,000 from the local authority.

John Jossa, 58, faked invoices from a supplier and put his wife Selina on the council's payroll for more than a year even though she never worked there.

The offences were committed between 2007 and 2010.

Jossa is the father of EastEnders actress Jacqueline Jossa, who plays Lauren Branning in the BBC soap.

Council chiefs said that additional safeguards were now in place to ensure "the likelihood of this sort of fraud being repeated is extremely small."

They added that they would be looking to recoup the money lost.

Jossa will be sentenced at the Old Bailey on May 17.

A council spokeswoman said: "We are satisfied with the guilty plea and are confident that with additional safeguards and controls in place, the likelihood of this sort of fraud being repeated is extremely small.

"This fraud was committed by a senior member of the management team who was in a position of trust and had direct responsibility for the management and maintenance of our financial system and processes.

"Since coming to light a full and comprehensive independent investigation has been conducted to find out how these frauds were perpetrated.

"We have now reviewed our systems and put in place additional safeguards which we are confident will minimise the risk of this ever happening again."

"We will continue to take the firmest possible action against any individual found defrauding or stealing," she added. "We are insured against this type of loss and are looking to recoup the money lost."

Bad weather fails to dampen spirits at re-opening of Ponders End Park

By Ruth McKee

THE Easter bunny ignored the risk of soggy fur this week and secreted chocolate eggs around Ponders End Park for children to find as part of an festival marking the opening of the latest re-vamped borough park.

The Ponders End Park, in Hertford Road, opened its gates for the first time on Monday with a day of free Easter activities for families when – as well as hunting for Fairtrade Easter eggs – children dressed up and donned their finest bonnets for a fancy dress parade and were able to play with cute spring animals at the mini farm.

With south-east England now officially in drought, the council planted drought-proof plants in the park so it can get around the hosepipe ban.

The extensive refurbishment, which includes upgraded lighting and, unusually for a public park, CCTV cameras, comes seven months after 14-year-old Leroy James, from Edmonton, was stabbed to death in the park in broad daylight.

Council leader Doug Taylor is hailing the new-look park as a vital part of regeneration in the area. He said: "The park will be a fantastic facility for all of Ponders End to enjoy and is part of the multi-million-pound regeneration of the area.

"Enfield is one of the greenest boroughs in London and the work carried out in Ponders End Park will build on and further enhance the superb facilities we have in our parks."

The emphasis on regeneration was added to as, alongside the Easter-themed events, the first Ponders End Creative Market was held with stallholders selling everything from cakes, to crafts, to beauty products.

The park and mini-market are aimed at

Fun time: Families enjoyed face painting and hunting for Easter eggs at the park's re-opening drawing more visitors to the area in an attempt to boost shops and shore up the area's economy.

Commenting on plans to make the Ponders End Market a regular feature, Mr Taylor added: "It will provide a boost to business in the area and enable people who want to set up a retail enterprise to test the water.

"We're determined to support new businesses in Enfield and the creation of an occasional market inside the park will give Ponders End a timely boost during a period of economic uncertainty."

Fire warning as hosepipe ban comes in

RESIDENTS have been reminded that barbecues are banned in parks across the borough as England's ongoing drought turns the country's green spaces into tinderboxes of dry grass and wood.

The stark warning over wildfires comes as London enters the first month of a hosepipe ban after reservoirs and lakes across England hit record low levels.

Signs have been put up in parks across the borough telling users that barbecues are banned and urging people to be careful when stubbing out cigarettes and dumping litter after March's heatwave created tinder dry conditions.

Even after a damp Easter weekend, Enfield Council fears the borough's expanses of green space could be swallowed in flames, after wildfires broke out at a cemetery in Woking, Surrey, and on moorland in north Yorkshire last month.

Red flags help keep plants watered

By Mary McConnell

RESIDENTS who want to keep Bury Lodge Park in Edmonton watered during the hosepipe ban are being asked to look out for the red flag.

The Friends Of Bury Lodge Park group is asking residents to bring bottles of used washing-up water with them to the park in a bid to stop thousands of pounds worth of flowers and plants dying. Red flags indicating which plants need to be watered will be placed at different spots in the park at different times.

In total around £16,000 of Lottery money was secured to spruce up the park, in Bury Street West, but now the hosepipe ban – which means anyone caught using a hosepipe will be fined £1,000 – has come into force, the Friends Of Bury Lodge Park fear many of the new plants could die without help from people living in the surrounding community.

"It's not just the money," said Denise Vallance, who is a member of the group. "Volunteers have spent hours and hours improving this park, so to see that all go to waste would be heartbreaking.

"There are almost 700 roses alone and that's without all the other plants and trees. We need help from as many people as possible; we aren't going to be able to do this by ourselves.

"A lot of our members are elderly and they can't carry lots of water far, so we would like youngsters to help out. Wherever you see the red flag, that's where we want you to water. You can use dirty dishwater, so long as the water doesn't go directly on the plants themselves."

On Easter Sunday children were invited to take part in an Easter egg hunt in Bury Lodge Park to celebrate the new look.

Grandfather one of oldest London 2012 torchbearers

By Matthew Stanton

AN ATHLETICS club official has been rewarded for his dedication to the sport by being named as an Olympic torchbearer.

Former competitive middle distance runner Roy Stratton has been involved in athletics for nearly 60 years and is currently president of Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club.

And at 74 years of age, the grandfather-of-four will be one of the oldest people to carry the Olympic flame to the Games.

Roy, who lives in Chingford, will run 300metres of the Greenwich to Waltham Forest route on Saturday July 21.

The father-of-three's passion for athletics will continue into the Games as a "games maker" - a volunteer, who will work alongside athletes in events.

"I feel highly honoured to be selected, especially knowing how many people applied," he said.

"It makes me proud to know that people of all ages will be carrying the torch and although I will be slowly jogging and walking, I am thankful to have been given this opportunity. Being a torchbearer is an once-in-a-lifetime experience - one I will always cherish."

Roy, who recently celebrated 48 years of marriage to wife Beryl, started competing in 1955.

As well as his roles at Enfield and Haringey, the retired building society worker is also championship secretary of the Middlesex County Athletic Association.

Roy, who will be cheered on by his children Colin, Alan and Susan, has been inspirational in promoting the Paralympic Games and was awarded the Service to Sport Award by UK Ath-

Amy makes early start to marathon challenge

By Mary McConnell

THE sister of a soldier who lost three limbs while on duty in Afghanistan is running the London Marathon in aid of a charity which helps amputee soldiers.

Amy Otter, 26, whose 23-year-old brother Jack was injured by an improvised explosive device in Helmand province in 2009, will be pounding the streets of the capital on April 22.

She is hoping to raise £5,000 for the British Limbless Ex-servicemen's Association (Blesma).

The handbag designer from Enfield is undergoing a punishing schedule, getting up at 5am up to five times a week to train for the 26.2-mile run.

"I taught myself how to run after my brother was injured," Amy told the Advertiser. "It's nice to have that head space and to get out in the fresh air."

"Jack really hates it when people call him an inspiration but he is. He has just got on with his life and is looking forwards."

"Blesma does such a great job for the soldiers. My brother Jack did a skydive with them and they take amputees all over the world, skiing, skydiving, scuba-diving, to help them see that there is life after amputation."

"The charity shows them that if you want to do something you can find a way."

"The theory is that it should be amputees teaching amputees, so there is an injured veteran who sailed across the

"They've also been involved in trying to secure the future for amputees."

"There have been so many soldiers who have lost limbs, and as they get older people are worried that the NHS will not be able to cope."

"Blesma puts pressure on the government to ensure amputees are given the prosthetic limbs they need."

Amy is seeking to raise £4,500, enough money to send three soldiers on a Wounded Warriors weekend at a ski resort in Colorado, in the US.

She said: "They close down the resort and the soldiers have a whole weekend of skiing. British and American soldiers go along. It costs £1,500 to send each soldier and my aim to raise enough money for three. So far I have £2,700, so I am getting there."

Police use Facebook to hunt teenager's killers

By Ruth McKee

POLICE have launched a Facebook appeal in a bid to find the killers of 15-year-old Negus McClean.

The teenager was stabbed in the chest and thigh in front of his 13-year-old brother following a row over a mobile phone in Westminster Road, Edmonton, on April 10 last year.

Exactly 12 months on from Negus's death, the Metropolitan Police has put a special appeal on its Facebook page, www.facebook.com/metpoliceuk, in the hope of prompting anyone with information to come forward.

Acknowledging community fears over retaliation and intimidation, the Met is using the appeal to stress that all information given will be treated in the strictest confidence.

Police have made clear they are prepared to meet people anonymously, outside their area, in plain clothes and in unmarked cars to protect informants from identification.

The Met has also reminded users of the social networking site that the reward of £20,000 for anyone who can help catch Negus's killers still stands.

To date, 16 people have been arrested in connection with Negus's killing but no charges have yet been brought.

The attempt to break the wall of silence over the killing comes in the same week that an anti-knife crime event planned to mark the one-year

One year on: An event organised by poet Shirley Mason, above, to mark the anniversary of the killing of Negus McClean, left, had to be cancelled due to safety reasons anniversary of the killing was cancelled.

The decision was taken amid fears Negus's killers could disrupt the memorial service and that there was a possibility of "post-event reprisals".

The Respect Life session, which was scheduled to take place yesterday at Millfield Arts Centre, in Silver Street, was organised by Shirley Mason.

The Edmonton poet is a long-time friend of the McClean family and founder of anti-knife crime organisation the Burning Flame Foundation.

She told the Advertiser the celebration of Negus's life and commemoration of his death would provide "a place for communal grief" over the teenager's killing, as well as all the other young men who have died violent deaths in north London in recent years.

Expressing her frustration that the event had been cancelled, Ms Mason said: "I am disappointed because I believe the occasion would have engendered personal and community transformation in ways that we are not even yet aware of."

Negus's mother has also released a heartfelt appeal on the video sharing website YouTube. Ingrid Adam said: "I have no words to describe how it feels to hear your son is dead."

Reading all about it: Grandmother-of-six Ann Proctor

By Mary McConnell

THE great-grand niece of a man who went down with the Titanic 100 years ago says she is "proud" to have a link with the captivating story of the disaster that claimed more than 1,500 lives.

Enfield resident Ann Proctor's great uncle George Francis Bailey, from Shepperton, in Middlesex, was a steward on board the doomed Titanic's maiden voyage from Southampton to New York in April 1912.

His body was picked up by the MacKay-Bennet, a ship chartered to recover the bodies of those who died.

It was chartered by White Star Line, the company behind the Titanic, which was the largest ship in existence at the time of the disaster.

Along with many others who perished in the icy sea, Mr Bailey was buried in Nova Scotia, Canada.

Although she was born many decades after the liner went down in the north Atlantic after colliding with an iceberg, Mrs Proctor said she has always felt a connection to those on board the ship.

"We think he was about 36 years old when he died," said Mrs Proctor, of Carnarvon Avenue, who moved to the borough when she got married.

"He was my father's mother's brother. Sadly we haven't got any pictures of him. I just feel honoured to be associated with that ship.

"When I think about it, it sometimes brings tears to my eyes because it was a waste of life.

"It wasn't a wartime situation, it was just one of those tragic things."

But the sinking of the Titanic did not put the grandmother-of-six off boats.

She has been on many cruises and even had a job with P&O Ferries.

"I have always felt very close to the Titanic, I've got lots of books about it," she said.

"I've always been drawn to the Titanic - it will never leave me."

COMMENT

Who is in control?

CAN a dog be born bad? Or does fault sit solely with the owner when a notorious breed of dog rips through flesh and bone destroying lives?

The government has tried many things in the fight against the gang warfare that threatens to engulf the capital with tough prison sentences for anyone caught in possession of an unlicensed gun. Should the same apply to the "status dogs" prowling menacingly alongside owners, who seem to have only the lightest grip on an all too flimsy leash?

Although we tend to sentimentalise our pets, explaining away their misdemeanours by protesting, we also forget that up to 60kg of muscle hurtling towards a static target can cause as much damage as any knife or gun.

Of course, a good owner makes for a good dog. Maybe we should make sure responsible dog owners only are allowed to handle the more aggressive breeds. Licensing dog owners would be in everyone's interest, not least the dogs.

Flexibility is needed

THE case of Becky Murray only highlights what most of us fear will happen if we end up relying on council services, a suffocating bureaucracy with no end in sight.

Her case emphasises how a one-size-fits-all approach has few benefits for the people in need, they simply serve the purpose of making the system easier for the organisation which holds the power.

The sad fact is that the mother was driven into debt and despair when she was most in need and there are probably thousands of others who are in a similar situation, looking for a way out, trying to make ends meet, not wanting to rely on the state.

There should be some kind of flexibility in the system and a realistic understanding of how benefits and payments are limited in support of low-income families.

No one should ever be forced into more debt when they are in housing need, otherwise how are they ever going to escape the system?

Café owners should have been treated better by councillors

WHEN a family build up a small business over a long period of time, they would not have expected Enfield's Labour council to give them just a few weeks to terminate their livelihood.

But that is just what has happened to the operators of the café in Trent Park, despite support from more than 1,400 people.

Denis and Rosa Marzocchi are being turfed out because, reportedly, larger companies offered significantly more money to the council (all above board according to EU rules, apparently).

From a Labour council that is already penalising small businesses and residents by charging for parking in Enfield Town on Sundays, this news comes as no surprise.

Those who attended the area forum meeting on Thursday March 15 would no doubt find the council's publicity, which stresses "fairness", as being, quite frankly, laughable.

We need to be on our guard to ensure that the increasing commercialisation of our precious parks by big business and a desperate council is closely monitored – not just by enthusiastic “Friends of the Parks” groups, but by all of us.

Road sharing idea will lead to anarchy

IN RESPONSE to David Hughes "Pedestrians, motorists and cyclists should learn to share their spaces" (Advertiser letters, April 4), until recently I had been driving for 49 years and have never injured a pedestrian.

I put that down to obeying the rules that Mr Hughes wishes to abolish. With 30 million cars on the road, Mr Hughes wants to remove all traffic lights and pedestrian crossings and have a free-for-all because he thinks it will be safer.

He seems to forget we all have responsibility for our actions and it is advisable for pedestrians to wait until traffic is stationary before using crossings of any kind.

I find it hard to believe that there are no traffic lights or pedestrian crossings in Holland. Can he say where this has happened in Britain?

Over the years, road traffic acts have been introduced to improve safety. The Highway Code — an excellent book — tells us what to do and we should not object if it is to keep us all safe. We cannot have a free-for-all on our roads that will result in anarchy.

Community spirit: Suzy Decodts and Martine Eni, who have been employed by the centre as development co-ordinators

New club set up for the young at heart

By Kim Inam

A NEW club for the "young at heart" is being launched at Enfield Island Village next month.

It will be the 12th club established at the community centre since two community development co-ordinators were hired in October using money from Enfield Council's new residents' priority fund.

Already, the centre in Island Centre Way has created a jobs club, a homework session on Saturday mornings, a gardening club and a coffee morning every Monday.

As well as the weekly activities there are monthly events. On Friday April 20 there will be a second inter-faith event after a similar venture proved successful earlier in the year.

Martine Eni, one of the centre co-ordinators, told the Advertiser: "We already have ten people from the Island interested in the over-50s' club and it will be open to the wider public. It's for everyone's benefit."

"They will choose their own chairman, secretary and treasurer as well as what activities they want to do and charities they want to support."

There are also exercise groups for women in conjunction with Tottenham Hotspur FC and health visitor drop-in sessions for the residents.

Ms Eni said the groups had helped boost the community atmosphere on the Island and said it was a passion of hers to bring the communities together in the Enfield Lock area.

There are also plans to open a local produce shop and secure funding for raised flower beds across the Island.

The over-50s' sessions will begin on May 9 at 6pm and will include refreshments.

WARNING: Freeview* viewers watching London TV will lose channels at switchover

18 April

To get your channels back, re-tune your digital TV or box on or after 18 April. You can do this using your remote. Switchover dates vary depending on where you live.

To check your dates, enter your postcode at digitaluk.co.uk or call 08456 50 50 50.

How to re-tune using your TV remote

Make sure your Freeview TV or box is on and in digital mode, usually by pressing the DTV or digital button on your remote. Then press 'menu'.

Select the 'set up' or 'installation' option. If you see picture icons, select the tool box, satellite dish or spanner. If you are prompted for a code, try 0000 or 1234.

Select the full re-tune option. This is sometimes called 'first time installation', 'factory reset', 'default settings' or 'shipping conditions'. Do not select 'channel update' or 'add channels'. Press 'OK' if your equipment asks if you want to delete all your channels, don't worry this is normal.

Channels will automatically be installed. This may take a few minutes and your equipment may shut down and restart.

Band to play at tribute concert to Monkees frontman

By Mary McConnell

AN ENFIELD-based band is to take part in a tribute concert marking the death of Davy Jones, of The Monkees, this weekend, to raise money for a multiple sclerosis charity.

The Shorty Blackwells will be teaming up with comedian Iain Lee to honour the singer, who died in February, to raise money for his favourite charity, the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

As part of the event at The Comedy Pub, in Leicester Square, the Shorty Blackwells will perform a selection of Monkees hits, including Hey Hey We're The Monkees and Daydream Believer.

Aiden Simington, from the band, said he had always been a huge fan of The Monkees.

"I spent my life savings flying to America to see The Monkees there in 1996 and ended up meeting them all," he said. "Davy was as kind as he was talented. We are thrilled to be performing and can't wait to don the red shirts and get everyone singing and dancing."

Doors open at 7.30pm. Tickets are £7 at the door, or £5.50 in advance, and can be bought via www.shortyblackwells.co.uk

Plant your drought garden

Less watering doesn't have to mean less gardening

There may be a ban on using your hosepipe but that doesn't mean your garden has to be neglected.

Celebrity gardener Charlie Dimmock is encouraging a more water-efficient way to garden and has said drought-resistant plants are the way forward.

She said: "Gardeners love to spend time outside in the spring and summer tending to their lawns and arranging their plants – that doesn't have to change but we need to take a different approach this year."

"It's been one of the driest two-year periods on record and we have to make sure we all work together to enjoy our gardens, but also to be responsible and considerate. We need to make sure there is enough water to go around because we don't know when it will rain next."

"If you plan your drought garden you can get as much enjoyment out of tending plants which are better equipped to deal with a drier soil like lavender and bergenia. Using less water will also save you money if you are on a water meter."

Richard Aylard, Thames Water's sustainability director, said:

"We want people to work with the ban, not against it. We fully understand the limitations this puts on people, especially keen gardeners, but we wouldn't be putting the ban in place if we didn't need to. Saving water now will make it less likely that we will need to bring in tougher restrictions later in the year."

"After such a dry two years we have to prioritise the most important uses of water. That means keeping everyone's kitchen and bathroom taps supplied has to take precedence over manicured lawns."

"Gardeners gave us a lot of help in 2006 when we last needed to bring in a ban to save water and we're counting on them to do their bit again this year."

Water-saving tips for gardeners from the Royal Horticultural Society and the Horticultural Trades Association:

- Don't worry about established lawns turning brown. This shows the grass has stopped growing, but most lawns will recover completely when the rain returns.
- If you need to water plants, do it in the morning or late in the evening when evaporation is minimal.
- Be sure to deliver water directly to the base of plants.
- Plant trees and shrubs in well-rotted, water-retaining compost and cover soil with a 2-3" (5-7cm) layer of mulch.
- Don't cut lawns too short, as longer grass sends down deeper roots and provides more shade.
- Collect rainwater off greenhouse, shed, garage and house roofs in water butts.

- Collect and re-use grey water from the bath or kitchen sink to water plants.
- Mix water-storing granules in with potting compost when planting up tubs and hanging baskets.
- Keep borders well weeded as weeds compete for moisture.
- Use a bigger pot and more compost to cool the soil and conserve moisture.
- Provide shelter by planting in a spot that is protected by walls, fences, hedges or other plants.
- Whether it's wood chippings, gravel or organic compost, a layer of mulch around the base of plants not only helps to reduce evaporation but also reduces the presence of weeds – which compete with plants for water.
- Make sure paved areas have planting areas to drain towards – that helps to use available rain water. Never drain patios or terraces into mains drainage.

Settled at last:
Becky Murray and her daughter Tiarna

There's no place as charity puts

By Ruth McKee

AS RENTS across London spiral ever upwards, along with the general cost of living, the hidden homeless are an ever growing part of life in the capital – prompting homelessness charity Shelter to draw attention to their plight in a campaign which focuses on people struggling to keep a roof over the heads of their families.

Council tenant Becky Murray, of Cherry Road, Enfield, features in the campaign.

Her story of coping with temporary accommodation, private landlords, council bureaucracy and spiralling arrears is a far cry from the usual image of rough sleepers that tends to dominate our idea of homelessness.

"I nearly went out of my mind," said the 26-year-old mum-of-one. "Every day I woke up and thought I couldn't face it, not again."

"Every day I'd go to the council and explain my situation and every day there would be always the same response,"

Becky's housing problems began when she fell pregnant and was evicted from shared accommodation where she was living with her partner.

When the couple contacted Enfield Homes, the organisation responsible for council housing in the borough, they were immediately classed as homeless and assigned temporary accommodation with a private landlord.

But what started out as an emergency solution to an immediate crisis turned into a five-year battle with bureaucracy during which Becky separated from her partner and was left struggling with depression as she battled for a home for herself and her young daughter.

"They told me that the maximum contract was for six years and I remember thinking: 'I'll never be here for that long – this is only temporary until I find my feet'," she recalls, kicking herself in hindsight for not spotting the trap of seemingly endless temporary housing contracts.

When Becky returned to her job as a teaching assistant after giving birth to her daughter, she was earning around £750 a month – but the rent quickly started to escalate.

As the authority repeatedly told Becky, rent is worked out on a means-tested basis.

Because she was in work and receiving tax credits to help pay for childcare, her rent was calculated at a level much higher than she could ever afford.

"I kept trying to explain to them that the tax credits do come into my account – but then they go straight out again," she said. "That's not my money."

Every day I woke up and thought I couldn't face it, not again like home for young mum Becky her struggle in campaign focus

"It was a horrible time. I honestly believe my relationship would have survived if we hadn't been under so much pressure.

"I was so depressed that my boss told me to take time off on sick leave because the stress had even started to creep into my work life.

"I felt awful all day. I was making sure the pupils were safe, well and happy, and I felt like I couldn't even provide that for my own daughter.

Nothing I did seemed to have any effect on what was happening."

With rents far above her monthly wage, Becky felt helpless in the face of the mounting debts and in a last-ditch attempt to find help she contacted Shelter.

"I felt like Shelter were the first people to listen to me and ask me,

"What happened, what's going on?" Because every time I went back to the council they just kept saying, 'Sorry, Miss Murray - all rent is means-tested. There's nothing we can do'."

Becky's situation of struggling to pay rent for poor-quality temporary accommodation is increasingly common as the shortage of long-term council housing shows no sign of letting up.

from the time of Becky's fight for secure long-term council accommodation show Enfield had 2,035 households in temporary accommodation in 2011.

When asked to comment on residents who struggle to cope when private landlords, who profit from taking on tenants such as Becky, start to inflate rents, Enfield Homes said: "While we are sympathetic to claimants who feel they are not getting enough financial support through the benefit system, unfortunately we do not have any influence on the assessment of benefits or how these are applied. This is governed by legislation."

Shelter has warned that government changes to housing benefit will hit women and families hardest.

Becky agrees - but remains furious that she "was punished for working".

She said: "I actually thought at one point how much better off I'd be if I stopped working, but I wanted to set an example to my daughter,"

After pressure from Shelter, Enfield Homes agreed to move Becky and her daughter out of temporary accommodation and into a council property with a stable rent agreement.

"I can actually raise my daughter here, it's a home," she added. "The last place was just somewhere we slept at night."

On sale: Children and staff from Waverley School hold their book sale at Sainsbury's to raise money

Children lead fundraising drive for bus

By Mary McConnell

SCHOOLCHILDREN with special needs have been raising money for a new minibus by selling secondhand books at a local supermarket.

Pupils at Waverley School in The Ride, Enfield, have been selling the books at Sainsbury's in Crown Road every Thursday to raise money for the new bus.

The school's previous buses were deemed unsuitable after they failed new carbon emissions legislation.

Each bus costs around £45,000 and the school has almost reached the halfway mark of its funding target.

Staff at the Sainsbury's branch have helped the school's fundraising efforts by raising £5,000, including a member of staff who was sponsored to shave her head.

Parent-governor Marcia Andrew, whose eight-year-old son Jason attends Waverley, said: "The people at Sainsbury's have been doing all sorts of things to raise money, which is really great. They came along to the school to see what goes on there and I think they were surprised that the children at Waverley have a proper curriculum and are actually learning things.

"It is a fabulous school and when I see my son doing something like purposefully picking something up or pushing a switch – for other people it might be a small thing but for our children it's massive."

Waverley caters for youngsters aged three to 19 who have severe and profound learning difficulties.

The school is also hoping to raise money for sensory lights in its pool, which is used for hydrotherapy.

"My son uses the pool and these lights will provide stimulation – they help the children learn," added Mrs Andrews.

"We do get government money, but we are always fundraising for something because we never seem to have enough money for all the things we would like."

Leader of Enfield Council

Survey shows increase in satisfaction with services – but we want to improve

SURVEYS give us a glimpse of public opinion and the results of the 2011 residents' satisfaction survey, conducted by the independent market research company Ipsos MORI, are good indicators that we are on the right track.

At the end of last year, a representative sample of just over 1,100 people took part in face-to-face interviews answering questions about their satisfaction and views of the council and living in Enfield.

People said they were proud to be living in the borough and 62 per cent were satisfied with the way the council is running the borough – a three per cent rise since 2007, the last time that a comparable survey was carried out.

But we want to improve still further.

“The crime rate was the chief concern”

When we asked residents what they wanted to see improved, the crime rate was the chief concern.

Working with the police, we have made significant inroads in bringing this down. Key achievements include a 23.7 per cent reduction in serious youth violence (April 2010-February 2012) and a 13.6 per cent drop in knife crime (April 2010-February 2012).

We are working hard with the police on the issue of the gangs in Enfield, and in January we staged England's first gang “call-in”.

In a court setting, young gang members heard what they could expect from the police and courts system if they continued to remain in gangs. This has encouraged many of those who attended to seek help to leave the gangs.

More gang call-ins are planned. We have secured additional funding of £288,000 to continue our crackdown.

The survey paints a mainly positive view of the council's services and their value for money – but we are not complacent.

We aim to make Enfield a borough where all residents are proud to live – and we will work hard on the issues that matter to residents.

WERE you shocked to hear that a Conservative Party official had been offering to sell lunches with the Prime Minister to corporate donors? I wasn't, although at £250,000 a go you would think he could have thrown in a seat in the House of Lords.

The Tories have hit back, claiming that the donations they get from big business are no different from what the Labour Party gets from the trade unions.

This comparison is ludicrous as well as odious. A businessman can extract a few hundred thousands from his back pocket without asking anybody's permission.

None of those who have helped to make him rich – not his customers, least of all his staff – can tell him what to do with his cash.

But trade union leaders can only use union money under the strict supervision of their organisations. Unions may not always be perfectly democratic, but they are a damn sight more democratic than global capitalist corporations.

Party funding will continue to be a problem. The big parties can only function if somebody gives them millions of pounds. The basic reason for this is that we live in a depoliticised country.

During the last general election campaign, I saw a Labour Party supporter just once in my street in Edmonton delivering election material from door to door – it was the candidate himself, on his own, on the eve of polling day.

Apart from that, the leafleting was done on a professional basis by young people working for a staff agency.

We have given up on political activism. We accept the fact that politics is not about people like us, but about highly-paid spin doctors, research assistants, image consultants and advertising agencies.

We well deserve people like former Tory Party co-treasurer Peter Cruddas, and can look forward to more, and much juicier party donor scandals.

MPs confident of boundary change being abandoned

POLITICIANS fighting boundary changes to their constituencies are confident the proposals will be dropped following the end of the consultation period this week.

Edmonton MP Andy Love and his Chingford and Woodford Green counterpart Iain Duncan Smith claim there has been "widespread opposition" to the Boundary Commission's plan to merge the two constituencies.

Enfield and Waltham Forest borough councils have supported their respective MPs in the fight by raising concerns that both areas have differences in demographics and community cohesion.

Campaigners have also pointed out that the Lee Valley and King George's Reservoir act as natural boundaries between Edmonton and Chingford.

"Generally speaking, our campaign is going very well and we have a very strong case," Mr Love said. "I know the Boundary Commission take feedback seriously and they have now heard from MPs, councils and the community. The message is clear, no one wants the initial proposal."

The Boundary Commission is aiming to reduce the number of MPs by 50 before 2015.

Its proposals would see the Edmonton Green, Jubilee and Lower Edmonton wards, which are all currently in the Edmonton constituency, become part of the new Chingford and Edmonton constituency, which will also include one ward from Higham Hill.

Mr Duncan-Smith, the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions and former Tory party leader, said: "I am really encouraged by the submissions from local people to the Boundary Commission. Out of more than 3,800 submissions for London, more than 500 were against the proposals for Chingford and Edmonton."

"In addition, I believe a petition with more than 1,000 signatures was submitted, while two local councils, one church and one Citizens' Advice Bureau spoke out against the proposal too. Only eight people were in favour."

"The Boundary Commission must now look at its proposal in view of the weight of opposition. It just needs to accept that it has made an error and, for all our sakes, put it right."

Capel Manor Gardens, in Bullsmoor Lane, is holding its 20th annual Spring Gardening Show on Saturday and Sunday.

And Ms Walkden will join fellow gardening expert Geoff Hodge at the event to offer tips to green-fingered visitors.

Among other attractions at the show will be gardening stalls, craft marquees, guided walks around the gardens and falconry displays – with up to 14 birds swooping through the skies.

The two-day show will include plant nurseries, garden furniture, ironworks and clothing as well as children's workshops and a food hall with home-made sausages, cheeses, jams and chutneys.

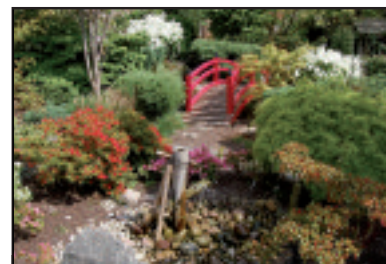

At the Old Manor House Garden there will be a steam train, a wedding display and servings of cream teas. And visitors on Sunday can also enjoy a classic car display.

Julie Ryan, Capel Manor's enterprise manager, said: "The Spring Gardening Show is a fantastic way to kick-start the gardening show season with numerous garden inspired stands to wander round.

"It is also a wonderful opportunity to see the college showcasing its courses and facilities amid 30 acres of landscaped gardens.

"It is a real treat of a weekend with something for everyone."

New for this year's show is a display from Stephen James BMW and Mini showing off some of the economical and green benefits of modern cars.

Town snatch a late leveller at home to Waltham Abbey

By Dominique Stafford

A LAST-GASP equaliser from Walid Matata enabled Enfield Town to snatch a 1-1 draw from Monday's home match against local rivals Waltham Abbey in Ryman League Division One North.

Town went into the match on a high having secured their place in the play-offs with four matches to spare by recording a superb 1-0 victory at Needham Market 48 hours earlier.

And, although they did not perform as well in this match as they had done on that occasion, they still created more than enough chances to have won comfortably – despite playing with just ten men for the entire second half following Michael Ewang's sending off.

However, they looked set to end up with nothing to show for their efforts after Loren Maxwell gave Abbey the lead on 88 minutes – only for Matata to step up and rescue a point from close range two minutes later.

“Considering we played for a good chunk of the game with ten men against 11 I did not think we played that badly,” said manager Steve Newing. “Our keeper only really had one shot to save in the match, whereas we had a lot of chances.”

“It was a moment of madness from Michael. It's not like him. He's a tough tackling midfielder, but he knows where to draw the line and he left the referee with no alternative when he raised his hands like that.”

“I was probably more upset about their goal than anything. It may well have been offside, but we left ourselves wide open and were all over the place defensively.”

Town had certainly been the more dangerous side prior to Ewang's dismissal, with Adam Wallace twice denied by visiting keeper Richard Hayward and Leon Osei failing to hit the target with a diving header from close range.

But the hosts left themselves with a mountain to climb when Ewang saw red on 43 minutes for shoving Louis Bristow in the chest after Town had strong penalty appeals waved away when Wallace appeared to have been brought down in the box.

Abbey should have taken the lead within moments of the restart when Stephen Cawley somehow managed to fire over from three yards out after home keeper Noel Imber had saved his initial header.

This was a rare threat from the visitors though as Town continued to create the better chances, with Tyler Campbell twice failing to take advantage of one-on-one situations.

Town were then handed a boost when Abbey were also reduced to ten men on 78 minutes as Tom Bruno was dismissed for a dangerous challenge on Craig McKay.

Rather than take advantage of this, the hosts actually fell behind ten minutes later as Abbey scored from a swift counter-attack – a suspiciously offside-looking Daran Bern squaring to leave Maxwell with a simple finish.

However, Town hit back well and levelled the scores two minutes later as substitute Matata turned in Wallace's low cross at the far post to ensure that they did not end up empty-handed.

Early exit: Michael Ewang saw red against Abbey

Sarries are outclassed as Euro dream is over

By Dominique Stafford

SARACENS' dreams of reaching the semi-finals of the Heineken Cup for just the second time turned into a nightmare on Sunday as they were comprehensively beaten 22-3 at home by Clermont Auvergne.

The star-studded French visitors were far too good for the English champions as they completely controlled the match and restricted the hosts to just a solitary Owen Farrell penalty.

Clermont have a reputation for being poor travellers in Europe and had lost all three of their previous quarter-finals in the competition but, roared on by a fantastic visiting support, they put that behind them with a stunning display.

Welsh international full-back Lee Byrne scored the only try of the match, but it was Brock James – who came on as an early substitute for the injured David Skrele – who proved to be the star of the show by claiming 19 points and producing a superb range of kicking from hand to keep Sarries on the back foot.

"We talked pre-game that we didn't want it to be a learning experience," director of rugby Mark McCall said. "We thought we were ready, but we came up against an outstanding team who were extremely motivated after losing a number of quarter-finals."

"In the first half they put us under a lot of pressure with their kicking game. We thought at half-time that we'd weathered the storm, but we needed to get a foothold at the start of the second half and it didn't happen."

Second best: Mark McCall admitted Sarries were outplayed on Sunday

"The squad that Clermont were able to bring was outstanding. Their team is star-studded and they were too good for us."

Three James penalties – two for infringements at the scrum – gave Clermont a 9-0 lead inside 15 minutes before Farrell responded with a successful penalty for the hosts.

Although the visitors continued to dominate, there were no further points prior to the interval – but Clermont took a firm grip of the match by scoring a fine try within four minutes of the restart.

The visitors launched an attack from deep and Nathan Hines' fine offload found Aurelien Rougerie in space. He broke forward as a big overlap was created before releasing Morgan Parra in space, and the scrum-half ran to within yards of the line to leave Byrne with a simple run in out wide.

James slotted over the tricky conversion before adding another three points to the visitors' tally with a long-range drop-goal five minutes later and then kicking another penalty on 56 minutes to leave them 19 points clear.

Sarries finally began to threaten as an attacking force as the match headed towards its conclusion, but they were unable to break through Clermont's defensive line as they bowed out of the competition with barely a whimper.

Young table tennis star selected for major event

A TEN-YEAR-OLD table tennis player from Enfield has been selected to represent Middlesex at the Butterfly School's individual table tennis Championships later this month.

Denise Payet, who is a member of Ellenborough Table Tennis Club and is a pupil at George Spicer School, will be among more than 300 youngsters competing in the largest one-day event in the English table tennis calendar in Doncaster on April 21.

Following the championships, the English Schools Table Tennis Association will select representative teams to play in the Invitation International in June.

Denise, who is ranked number one in England in the under-11 age group, said: "I love playing table tennis at my local club, Ellenborough, with my coaches."

"With their hard work I have achieved so much in the past two years. I have won the north London Individual Schools Championships and have also just found out that I've been chosen to represent the ESTTA for the British Schools Primary International in Scotland for the second year running."

"I would like to thank my school for supporting me at all times."

Thousands to mark Greek Easter

AROUND 5,000 people are expected to attend a Greek Orthodox Easter parade this week.

The event in Edmonton on Friday will begin with a service at St Demetrios' Church in Logan Road at 7.30pm.

A large, square replica of the tomb of Christ, adorned with bright flowers, will be taken through the streets, following by thousands of worshippers.

The parade will leave from St Demetrios' and go down Town Road, Ranworth Road and Monmouth Road, before returning to the church.

People from all over north London are expected to attend the parade, which is thought to be the biggest in the capital.

Enfield councillor George Savva said it would be a spectacular evening.

He said: "There will be people of all ages, young and old.

"People from as far away as Chingford, Cuffley and the surrounding boroughs will be there.

"All the local MPs have been invited, and I know that Andy Love is definitely coming.

"Then at the evening service on Saturday, eggs that have been dyed red will be handed out, as is traditional."

Newborn waits for audience

VISITORS to a lambing event were delighted to witness the arrival of a surprise latecomer.

Forty Hall Farm thought all its lambs had already been welcomed into the world by the end of the weekend.

But on Monday morning the last arrival made an appearance.

As well as spying the newborn lambs, visitors to the farm in Forty Hill, which is run by Capel Manor College, were able to see Easter chicks and sheep shearing demonstrations.

And visitors also had the chance to get hands-on by joining in with countryside crafts including charcoal making and willow weaving.

Kate McGeevor, manager of Forty Hall Farm, said: "We were delighted with how our lambing sessions went.

"We had more than 2,000 visitors during the two days and would like to thank everyone who braved the wind and the rain to join us.

"We thought that all of our lambs had arrived but we had an unexpected arrival on Monday morning – a latecomer that obviously wanted to wait until it had an audience!"

Capel Manor College runs a range of courses, and starting this month and next there will be lessons in animal care, floristry, gardening, design and woodland skills.

The farm is expected to welcome visitors again for the reopening of Forty Hall at the end of June.

Feeling sheepish: People had the chance to meet newborn lambs, above and top, and also watch a sheep shearing display

Father-of-four dies of injuries after collision

By Ruth McKee

A CYCLIST has died of his injuries in hospital, six days after he was involved in an accident with a car.

Frank Mugisha, 41, of Hoe Lane, Enfield, was taken to the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London, following the collision in Tottenham around 1.30pm on Tuesday March 27.

He died as a result of his injuries on April 2. The collision took place in Great Cambridge Road, near the junction with White Hart Lane.

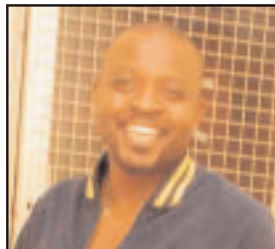

Police are appealing for information from anyone who saw it happen.

Witnesses are being urged to call the road death investigation unit in Chadwell Heath on 020 8597 4874.

A 62-year-old man was arrested on suspicion of dangerous driving and has been bailed until the end of April.

The father-of-four is the fifth cyclist to be killed on the capital's roads since the start of the year.

Mr Mugisha's death follows fatal collisions in Beckenham, Kingston, Deptford and central London.

Circus festival offers dirty laundry and backgammon

AN INTERNATIONAL circus extravaganza is coming to north London this month as part of Circus Fest 2012.

The contemporary circus festival is run by The Roundhouse in Camden, but will also be held at other north London venues for the first time this year.

Jacksons Lane Theatre, in Highgate, will be staging Backgammon For Beginners, an acrobatic account of an Iranian's adventures in 1970s London.

The show, which comes from the British-based award-winning So & So Circus, runs from next Wednesday until April 21.

And artsdepot, in North Finchley, will present Belgium-based Compagnie Rasoterra's new show Dirty Laundry on April 19.

The show delves into the private lives of a couple, using acrobatics and a trick bike.

Also at artsdepot, photographer Ben Hopper's circus exhibition, featuring young performers at last year's Circa

On a rope: High-wire artists at Moscow State Circus

Festival in Auch, France, will be on display until April 29.

Coinciding with Circus Fest is the Moscow State Circus' visit to Alexandra Palace, in Wood Green. Its latest show, Babushkin Sekret, is inspired by the legend of the 12 Chairs – a story from Soviet Russia.

The mammoth cast of Russia's most talented artistes, who combine contemporary and traditional elements of the circus, are stopping off at Ally Pally until Sunday before heading off on tour around other parts of England.

The animal-free show features high-wire exploits, trapeze artists and clowns. The show takes place in a climate-controlled big top with a dome to accommodate the complex rigging for the aerial acts.

The Westender

with Mary McConnell

EVE Best literally shines in the atmospheric production of John Webster's bloodthirsty Renaissance play The Duchess Of Malfi.

Bathed in light as she enters the dark court, Best steals the show with her enchanting portrayal of the Duchess, who secretly marries her lover, only to face the wrath and vengeance of her two controlling brothers. Combining sweetness and wit with stoicism and grit, Best is gripping as she calmly faces her brothers' persecution to the end.

And the play suffers somewhat once she is gone, becoming weighty and plodding.

The look and feel of this production is spectacular. Sinister cardinals, dressed in blood-red robes, and masked, hooded monks move steadily through swirling clouds of smoke, up and down the gilded staircases of the impressive Old Vic set.

There are fine performances from the actors playing the Duchess' brothers. Finbar Lynch is chilling as the Cardinal and Harry Lloyd pulls off the unhinged, vengeful Duke Ferdinand, with wonderful aplomb.

But Mark Bonnar, who barks his lines monotonously, is rather a letdown and fails to convince as Bosola, the spy-turned-executioner, who sees the error of his ways all too late.

The closing scenes are too ponderous and should have been hurried along – even Webster newcomers could see it all coming, with any suspense having long departed.

Working out on the Olympics

TWENTY children took part in an inclusive theatre workshop all about the London Olympics at Chickenshed Theatre, in Southgate, last Wednesday.

Working with the charity Whizz-Kidz, which aims to get disabled children access to mobility equipment, Chickenshed ran the Creative Olympics workshop for both disabled and able-bodied children.

The 20 children who took part in the workshop, which was funded by BT, learned about the London Olympics, exploring the values of group achievement, team building and sharing.

Paul Morrall, Chickenshed's director of education, delivered the workshop together with a team of 15 staff and students from the theatre. He said: "Diversity is about respecting individual differences regardless of background, race, culture, gender, age, politics, religion, values, ethnicity and ability; valuing and reaping the benefits of difference."

Claire Smith, life skills officer at Whizz-Kidz, added: "We are all about empowering young disabled people with confidence, independence and with skills they can use in their everyday lives at school, play and work."

"This workshop pilot is a fantastic collaboration that embodies our ethos of all kids getting the chance to lead full and active childhoods."

Going for gold: Youngsters at the Creative Olympics workshop

Chickenshed has been offering and delivering diversity workshops to businesses, schools, colleges and community groups for many years.

The workshops have been developed from the successful inclusive theatre model that has been delivered to children and young people since the group started 38 years ago.

Highland keeps the faith for traditional customers

Restaurant News

The Highland Restaurant
 43 Cannon Hill
 Southgate
 N14 6LH
020 8882 4897

WHILE flashier restaurants have come and gone, The Highland has quietly been plugging away, serving good, old-fashioned European dishes to its band of faithful customers.

Serving some of the best steak this side of north London, The Highland offers a range of no-frills fare, lovingly cooked with fresh, top-quality ingredients.

With beef, which is delivered straight from Aberdeen (hence the restaurant's name) and hung for two weeks before being cut to order, or Dutch veal pan-fried with cream and mushrooms, it's no mystery why loyal customers return to The Highland time and again.

Owner Sakir Ozer has been in charge for almost three years, taking over from a friend who had owned it for 20 years.

According to Sakir, the restaurant was founded a few years before that in 1971 by none other than George Michael's dad Kyriacos Panayiotou.

"We are very particular about the beef we serve," said Sakir. "It has to be hung for two weeks and it's not cut up and left to sit in the fridge, or it will lose flavour and moisture."

"Our menu is varied. There is Greek, Turkish, French, Italian and British food because we have lots of different customers from around this area who have different backgrounds.

"Our customers enjoy eating traditional food. They like to know what they are getting, so the menu doesn't really change.

"Some of our customers have been coming here since they were children and our chefs have been here for many years. One has been here for 39 years while the other has been here for 29 years.

"We serve very generous portions. People always comment on our Sunday roasts. We serve them on huge plates."

Sylvia's been going to great lengths for swimming club

By Sumit Wadhia

A VETERAN volunteer has been recognised by the Mayor of London for her contribution to a Southgate-based swimming club

Sylvia Burt, 84, from Palmers Green, received her award for individual long-standing commitment from Boris Johnson in a ceremony at City Hall recognising the enormous contribution that volunteers make in improving the lives of excluded and disadvantaged Londoners.

Sylvia was shortlisted from hundreds of applicants and was honoured for her 45 years of support and dedication to Broomfield Park Swimming Club.

Her involvement in the club includes fundraising and being a member of the committee as well as the membership secretary.

On receiving the award, she said she was "absolutely gobsmacked, but in a nice way" and that at first she thought that it was a prank until she was asked to contact City Hall about going to the presentation ceremony.

"You don't think about how long you have done something for until you reflect on it after," she said. "My aim was just to always be there for the children."

Also at the ceremony was Arsenal and England footballer and fellow volunteer Kieran Gibbs. He talked about the stereotypes associated with the capital's residents, saying: "Too often Londoners are portrayed

Capital gain: Sylvia Burt with the Team London volunteering award, given to her by the Mayor of London Boris Johnson in recognition of her dedication to Broomfield Park Swimming Club as not caring. I am pleased that these awards recognise the amazing things that volunteers do to make our city a better place."

Mr Johnson added: "I am deeply humbled by the heroic stories of the thousands of volunteers I meet each day, who are playing their part in helping make this the best city in the world. London is thriving in so many respects, but there are challenges, too. How we tackle those challenges together is at the heart of Team London.

"I am very proud of what has been achieved through the support and commitment of London and I know we can continue to improve our local areas and communities for the better."

Sylvia has now retired from her voluntary activities with the swimming club but remains a lifetime member.

LANES OFFER AUCTION ADVICE.

The next auction being held by Lanes in partnership with Network Auctions is being held at their national auction room at The Glaziers Hall overlooking the River Thames in Central London on 3rd May at 1pm.

The May auction follows a successful move to Central London earlier in the year and Lanes are currently seeking lots for inclusion in the catalogue.

Paul Lincoln of Lanes said: "Any property can be sold successfully at auction and by attracting both local buyers and London investors we are achieving excellent results for our client. Most sellers don't consider auction when they plan their move but they should! We can provide advice and appraisal recommending the best method of sale to suit both the property and clients circumstances."

Auctions are a superb way of selling a wide variety of property as they provide:

TRANSPARENCY – all interested parties have the opportunity to bid

CERTAINTY – Bidders exchange contracts and the transaction is secured as soon as the auctioneer's gavel falls and the seller avoids the pitfalls of timewasters, chains and sales falling through

SPEED – sellers have complete control over the transaction

The auction on 3rd May will once again have a live Twitter feed (@NetworkAuctions) giving the results as they happen and the auction can also be followed on video live online at www.networkauctions.co.uk

Guy Charrison, auctioneer for Network Auctions and Chairman of the National Association of Valuers & Auctioneers added: "Properties being sold by auction have significantly increased in numbers in recent years. This clearly proves that auctions provide an ideal way of disposing of a wide variety of property, particularly in situations where transparency and speed of sale are important."

Our move to Central London and our partnership arrangements in Scotland now see even greater exposure and opportunity for those looking to sell property across the UK."

Lanes are inviting lots for the next auction which will be held in London on May 3rd and Paul Lincoln of Lanes will be pleased to advise on what is involved.

Paul can be contacted on 020 8804 2253 or by email on paul.lincoln@lanes-sales.co.uk or at the Lanes website at www.lanesproperty.co.uk

Things are looking up! for small Volkswagens

By Iain Dooley

SMALL cars are now a big deal as buyers seek to save money and not battle with parking and all the rest in our increasingly crowded cities. A new wave of small cars boasting big car refinement and road manners has done much to change the urban motoring landscape for the better.

Cars from the likes of Kia, Hyundai, Ford, Renault, Peugeot, Citroen and Toyota make up the bulk of what's available. Missing someone? Noticeable by its absence from that list is Volkswagen, which is odd considering it has what seems like a model in every other class.

However, along with Volkswagen Group family members Skoda and Seat, Volkswagen has finally entered the fray with its amusingly named up!. And yes, for all you sticklers for correct English, the name isn't a typo.

Granted, with its many rivals now well established in this fiercely competitive market, the need to produce something that is more than just 'edgy' and down with the kids is important. And having broken the ice with its three-door model, does the five-door up!, well, stack up?

The short answer is yes, especially as the diminutive Volkswagen is only 3.5m long. Launched initially in city car-friendly three-door form, the up!'s modest footprint offers buyers the ability to zip in and out of traffic with the minimum of fuss.

The up! is a small car, but it shares all the refinement and quality attributes of a Volkswagen. And that's a crucial difference separating the up! from its rivals.

The traditional three-door format is a popular one, but those extra two doors can make the difference if you've got a (very) small family, for instance. Volkswagen hasn't always had an easy ride with its urban motors, and it's an understatement to say that the up! has been a hotly anticipated car. Unlike in the past, this time Volkswagen chose to distill all that is good about its cars into a concentrated package.

The compact and lightweight platform is powered by an impressively advanced 1.0-litre, three-cylinder petrol engine, available in two states of tune (60 and 75 horsepower). This is no gruff, underpowered lump, either. Motorway cruising is big-car quiet, and there's plenty of oomph for the traffic light grand prix.

Factor in a slick five-speed manual gearbox, the option of a clutchless manual 'box that, admittedly, takes a little getting used to and suspension that soaks up the bumps in a way that would many family saloons blush with embarrassment, and the Facts at a glance

❑ Model: Volkswagen up! 5dr, from £8,400 (approx.) on the road. On sale September 2012.

❑ Engine: 1.0-litre petrol unit developing 60bhp.

❑ Transmission: 5-speed manual transmission as standard, driving the front wheels.

❑ Performance: Maximum speed 99mph, 0-62mph 14.4 seconds.

❑ Economy: 62.8mpg.

❑ CO2 Rating: 105g/km.

up!'s polished and mature character is nothing short of astounding given its size and asking price.

A small car with big ambitions, Volkswagen's five-door up! delivers the same smile-inducing driving experience as the three-door model, while the inclusion of those two extra doors adds a welcome extra layer to the ownership experience and is proof that Volkswagen is back in the small car game.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

4. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

5. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

6. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

7. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

8. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

9. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board (ASB) fee. This surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

10. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

11. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the advertising agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if it under no liability if the distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties.

We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. Win keeps Borough on track for fourth HARINGEY BOROUGH look set to finish fourth in the Spartan Premier Division following Saturday's 1-0 victory at fifth-placed Aylesbury United.

Borough went into the match five points ahead of their hosts – and a goal from Chris Morgan was enough to increase that advantage by a further three points and leave them needing just one win from their final three games to seal a fourth-placed finish.

It was Aylesbury who made the better start to the match, with visiting central defenders Ross Dedman and Charles Douse doing well to prevent them from creating any clear-cut opportunities.

But Borough gradually worked their way into the contest and almost took the lead just before half-time when home keeper Jack Sillitoe made an outstanding save to turn Andreas Loizou's chip over the bar.

Having finished the opening period in positive fashion, the visitors carried that momentum into the second half and Loizou and Dean Fenton both blazed over when well placed before Sillitoe again excelled to keep out a low Dewayne Clarke shot.

The decisive goal arrived with 14 minutes left as substitute Lloyd Opara attacked down the right before delivering an inch-perfect low cross which Morgan swept home at the far post.

Aylesbury mounted a late onslaught after falling behind and only a stunning save from Borough keeper Ryohei Tamai prevented John Mullholland from heading home an equaliser.

Haringey Borough visit Broxbourne Borough on Saturday (3pm).

No room for error: Harry Redknapp knows Spurs cannot afford many more slip-ups

A MAJOR SETBACK

By Dominique Stafford

MANAGER Harry Redknapp admits that Tottenham Hotspur face a real battle to secure their place in the Champions League for next season following their shock 2-1 defeat at home to Norwich City on Monday.

The loss means that Spurs have now won just one of their past eight Premier League games – a miserable run which has left them clinging on to fourth place above Newcastle only on goal difference, and just two points clear of sixth-placed Chelsea.

And Redknapp now feels that Tottenham may well need to win all five of their remaining league fixtures to book their place in the Champions League.

"We have got to look to win all five games really," said Redknapp. "Now it is a case of the team which has the best last five games, and we have to make sure it's us.

"It is all still to play for though. It is going to be close and it will come down to the team who wants it most.

"We would settle for finishing fourth; Champions League football is the key. It would be lovely if we could finish above Arsenal, but that is going to be tough now.

"It is still all to play for – Chelsea have to play Arsenal, Newcastle have to play Chelsea, Chelsea have to play Liverpool away, so who knows."

Spurs can certainly have few complaints about Monday's result as Norwich deservedly secured all three points.

Anthony Pilkington gave the visitors – who had two very strong penalty appeals turned down – an early lead before Jermain Defoe got the hosts back on level terms.

Gareth Bale did hit the underside of the bar for Tottenham, but they were continually exposed defensively and Elliott Bennett's 66th-minute pile-driver sealed their fate.

"We have not been in bad form the last few weeks, but this was a setback," Redknapp admitted. "We were a bit flat.

"I thought we'd go with four forwards and play 4-4-2. On paper it looked a really exciting, attacking team, but we were too open playing that way.

"Credit to Norwich, they deserved it. They worked very hard and made it difficult for us. I thought they were excellent and we were disappointing.

"We still had some great chances, but they were always dangerous and I never sat there and felt comfortable."

Skolars go down to consecutive defeats

A DISAPPOINTING Easter weekend of rugby league action for the London Skolars saw them suffer heavy defeats in both league and cup action.

A busy few days for the side began with them suffering a 58-16 loss at Doncaster in Co-Operative Championship One on Friday, and they followed this up with a 32-16 reversal at home to Toulouse Olympique in Monday's rearranged Northern Rail Cup clash.

The Skolars were simply blown away by a rampant Doncaster side, with Tom Hodson leading the way by claiming an incredible five tries.

Lee Waterman grabbed a hat-trick, while Keiran Hyde, Kyle Bibb and Grant Edwards also crossed the line and Paul Cooke added seven goals.

James Anthony (two) and Brad Hopkins replied with tries for the Skolars, two of which were converted by Neil Thorman.

Meanwhile, the Skolars have bolstered their ranks by signing 26-year-old second-row forward Mike Worrincy – who has played a total of 83 games at Super League level for the London Broncos and the Bradford Bulls and has also had a spell with Australian outfit Penrith Panthers – after he was released by Leigh Centurions last week.

"Mike is exactly the type of player we were looking for," said head coach Joe Mbu. "He brings considerable experience to the squad.

"It shows our progress and our future ambitions to be able to attract a player with that level of Super League experience."

The London Skolars' next match is at home to Oldham in the league on April 22 (3pm).
